Full Bio

Rich Moses is an Irish-born artist, session multi-instrumentalist and producer currently living in Cornwall, England. With Nigerian heritage, he blends folk nuances learned in his early years spent in rural Ireland playing in traditional bands, the rhythmic and melodic depths of Igbo songwriting, and a deep appreciation for alternative pop. His music is often lyrically centred around love, trauma and redemption, characterised by poetic songwriting, acoustic instrumentation and electronic textures.

Drawing inspiration from artists like Prince, Madison Cunningham, and Kendrick Lamar, Rich is drawn to the spaces between musical worlds, combining influences that might otherwise seem unlikely to coexist. As a current undergraduate English student, he approaches writing with a taste for both lyrical simplicity and poetic detail, often incorporating sounds from the physical world into his compositions. Through these songs, he aspires to evoke the same emotions as the great classic artists he has studied throughout his life, from orchestral string players to rap artists, and gospel singers to indie rock bands, integrating their practices into his musical arsenal whilst forming something uniquely his own.

Rich began playing the guitar at age 2 and led gospel teams from an early age. His musical development has taken him all over the UK and Europe, playing at some of the most reputable events and venues, including solo performances at Wembley Arena, where he was picked among only a handful of young musicians to sing at the longstanding event “VIAM,” which raises awareness and funds for children within the care system. He was also asked to sing for Queen Camilla at a similar celebration held at his church last year, while she met with key Cornish organisations, commemorating their local impact.

Having performed alongside his two older brothers in Moses Brothers for much of his life, Rich has had the opportunity to play at the biggest Christian music festivals in the UK, including Big Church Fest and Creation Fest for many years running, bringing a fresh and diverse sound to the well-established events. There, he’s led on the same stage with artists such as Brandon Lake & Phil Wickham, Hillsong United and Elevation Rhythm, and has played with chart-topping Elle Limebear. In 2024, he had the opportunity to play with UPPERROOM Dallas’s key worship leaders Joel and Elyssa Figueroa, writers of ‘Surrounded (Fight My Battles)’, at a worship event in Dereham, England, as well as at the well-known festival David’s Tent UK. In April 2026, he led worship and played with ‘Here I am to Worship’ writer Tim Hughes, and ‘Shine Jesus Shine’ writer Graham Kendrick at Spring Harvest, accompanying both globally recognised worship artists at a landmark event in the UK Christian calendar. Alongside his brothers, Rich opened for GRAMMY-winning Israel Houghton, and Philippa Hanna’s ‘Til The Whole World Knows’ Tour this summer in Surrey, England, a full-circle moment as a longtime Israel & New Breed fan. These opportunities have given Rich experience that is unique amongst many emerging independent artists, all prior to releasing his own solo work.

This Autumn, Rich is debuting some of the self-produced work that he has been recording over the last 4 years, tracking every instrument himself, including guitars, upright bass, drums, cello, saxophone and more, largely in the home studio he built with his brother and friends. As well as this, Rich is currently engineering and mixing the projects himself, with longtime friend and producer Josh Best-Shaw, keeping collaboration and relationship at the centre of his creative endeavours. For Rich, music is both a form of self-expression and a means of bringing people together: a shared language capable of pointing to something bigger than the individual.

Beyond his own solo projects, Rich was also a part of a live album recording led by GRAMMY-winning musician and producer, Troy Miller, at the iconic RAK Studios in December 2025, a space which has hosted many artists such as Michael Jackson and Paul McCartney. Alongside this, Rich has written with London-based, GRAMMY Award-winning producer and good friend, Gaetan Judd, on a project involving UK worship group, Manor Collective, expecting to release those songs in Spring 2027.

In November 2026, Rich is featured on “Least Of These,” a track written by Bella Camp, on A Camp Family Christmas, an album released by Jeremy Camp and his family. Rich has also been invited to tour on TobyMac’s Hits Deep Tour 2027 with Jeremy Camp and his band for a 30+ city tour across the United States.
